Tommy and Sis, They Can't Miss

Through his profits as a junior street salesman of a Kansas newspaper, nine-year-old Tommy Jovalis is the proud possessor of a $100 and a $50 War Bond. But he doesn't own them alone. He asked the man at the post office to make them out in his name with his two-year-old sister, Frances, as co-owner. He presented them to her on their joint birthday last month.
Tommy has been "in business" since last July. Every afternoon after school, he piles his wares—up and down Kansas Avenue in Topeka.
"It was his own idea to save his money," according to his father. "As soon as he started, he began bringing his money home to his mother, and asked her to save it for him. He wanted to put it into War Bonds. He wanted to do something for his America."
Asked what he intended to use the bonds for, Tommy replied, "Some day I want to go to college, and I want Frances to go, too."
